THOUSANDS OF RUSSIANS IN ONE JAPANESE CITY

Excited Natives Throng to Nagoya to See Huge Slaves Curded by Little Japanese Troops.

(Yone No Guchi in Boston Transcript.)

The greatest sight in Japan just now is the Russian prisoners. Their number is now countless, and they have been gathered not only from Liao-Yang and Port Arthur, but from all Manchuria, sick and wounded, and well and strong. Since the middle of November they have been quartered here in Nagoya—first only a few, then a hundred—now the number ascends into the thousands.

People have been coming here from every province in Japan, traveling hastily as if to see some startling miracle; the giant Russians being guarded and cared for by the Japanese. Nagoya has always been more or less a point of pilgrimage for both natives and tourists, on account of the famous castle and the sacred temple. And then, too, Nagoya is celebrated for its very charming fane!

Matsuyama was at first the center of interest for the view of the Russian prisoners, but it changed to Nagoya. What a strange sight! The largest camp of the captured Russians is in the grounds of the Higashi Hongjini, the grounds of the great Buddhist temple, where the sun shines bright and the tinkling melody of the bells sound ever.

For the most part they are rough and boorish looking young fellows, with complexions every shade of color under the sun, most of them very dark, though some are as pink and white as any child's face. Many are still covered with grime and dirt. Thus, the rough gray army blouses and coats and the tall towering black Cossack caps give to them a shaggy, fierce, and even wild and dangerous look. A few of them wear the snow white robe of the Red Cross Society, and to see them with their bear-like brothers, and to watch the three hundred priests of the temple in their long black robes, is a strange and picturesque sight indeed. Then their expressions of face are interesting to see. Some look about them suspiciously and angrily, some have but a careless, indifferent smile, some have an anxious, frightened look, and upon the faces of others pain and misery are written in deep lines. Among them, particularly the officers, of course, there are some few cultivated gentlemen, but the mass are ignorant. One of the Japanese officers in charge at the place told me that the majority of them could not read a syllable, and who did not even know the name of the general under whom they had been fighting. Stolid and stupid they appear to be—however, they one and all are gratified at the Japanese kindness. And they have nothing whatever to complain of. They would like the freedom of the city without guards for they seem to show interest in looking around the city and peeping into the shops. Especially they like to see Nayaka Castle, and time hangs heavy on their hands.

The Japanese people carry to them many little gifts, bottles of sake, cups of rice, Japanese sweetmeats, and though they look and gaze upon them with curiosity, they are kindly and sympathetic. And they will come to the fence and look over oranges, grapefruit, cigarettes, parched beans and cakes. A little girl whom I know came running from the garden to meet me yesterday crying with a gleam of delight in her eyes and with a breathless voice. "Oh, I bought some cakes and parched beans and I threw them over the walls to the Russians—and some of the Russians laughed and put them in their mouths and they said 'Arigato,' and the looked glad!"

And I doubt if the Russians enjoyed it more than this little one did. There is a whisper that the guards will soon put a stop to all this, but even the Japanese guard can be quite merciful to the enemy.

The local papers are full of items about the prisoners, everything that they say and do, their queer customs, such as the saying of grace before meals, their morning and night prayers, their constant playing of the "trump" cards, their manner of eating, and above all, the items of the wounded ones and their accounts of the Japanese great fighting.

There is one poor fellow here who has had actually one hundred and sixty wounds and still he lives! Several have been shot clear through the chest and lungs, some have had their eyes swept out with a ball through the temple and some were shot right through the neck diagonally from front to back.

The appreciation of these hospital prisoners is very real, and indeed no one at all can even slightly in contact with the Japanese nurses and surgeons without being at once impressed with their genuine kindness and gentleness as well as by their ability. One surgeon said to me as he was dressing a wound, "I know no difference—I feel as if we Japanese and Russians were all one, as I am with them every day."

However, in spite of the skill and gentleness, many of the poor fellows

APPETITE OF A FLORIDA 'GATER

MONSTER WHICH DIED AT CIN-CINNATI HAD FEASTED ON CURIOUS ARTICLES.

A dispatch from Cincinnati states that Ajax, the 18-foot alligator, and largest specimen ever seen in that part of the country, died at the Zoo in Cincinnati Tuesday, after an illness extending through the winter. An autopsy revealed the fact that during the time when the animal sowed wild oats he had subjected his gastric organs to many extremes, as the following list of articles was found within him:

One fishhook, 3 1/2 inches long, supposed to be the remnant of a fish eaten in his native Florida bayou.

One meteor, weighing 2 1/2 ounces.

Three teeth of an iron garden rake, held together by the original back brace of iron.

Seventeen toothbrushes, presumed to have been dropped accidentally into his enclosure when on exhibition at Orlando, Fla., and at the Zoo.

Three pairs of spectacles, without their lenses.

Three dollars and eighteen cents in silver and pennies.

Nine rubber combs.

One door knob.

One pair of scissors.

One small iron bookjack.

Ajax had formerly been the property of an alligator dealer—a woman—at Orlando, Fla., from whom he was purchased two years ago. He was supposed to be about 200 years old.

Peculiar Disappearance.
J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at all drug stores, price 25 cents.

with the most ghastly wounds have terrible times. The daily dressing of a wound means agonies, and some bear it with groans and others, while others utter not a sound. I saw one fellow who had been shot in the head. The doctor said that he would lose the power of speech, very likely when his wound healed. There is one young officer here with fearful wounds in each hip and the back, affecting the spine and paralyzing the legs completely. The finely developed young body above is perfect, but his fine, manly face is pathetic in its pain and grief, and day by day he speaks of his mother.

But I daresay there is nothing more sad and to be lamented more profoundly than to hear the Russians speak "Banzai" (A thousand years for Japan and the Emperor). Many have learned it doubtless, not understanding its significance and simply trying to imitate, but it is tragic none the less to see them hailing thus their own country's enemy and wishing her a thousand years.

The Russian prisoners now here will remain until next April, the divine, white, Japanese April—the cherry season, and the time that is most beautiful in Nagoya.

This city is famous all over the world for its cherry trees, and in Japan it is fairly worshipped. In the springtime ten thousand people come daily to see the blooming cherry blossoms. And what a contrast, and a strange situation to see the Russians under our beloved cherry trees! God knows if the white divine spirits of the cherry blossoms will not enter into and beautify and Japanize the Russians!

All the people will come to the temple ground singing: "Among flowers the cherry blossom is the queen, and among men the samurai is lord." Yes, for ages the cherry tree has been the emblem of our Japanese people and the emblem of our character. The true Japanese spirit is like the odor of the cherry blossoms facing the rising sun. So the poet sings:

Isles of bliss Japan,
Shroud your soul
Strangers seek to scan—
Say—scenting morn's sunlight air
Blows the cherry, wild and fair!

What Is Being Done by The Journal Advertisers and Advertisers All Over the Continent, with Some Good Ideas from Ad. Experts.

Kick Coming.

The weather of last week was not very conducive to good business. The merchants all have a kick coming, but the old saying that the darkest hour is just before the dawn stands good, and the indications are that business will be brisk this week. Every progressive business man will strengthen his advertising to make up for lost time.

Don'ts.

Because you heard of a man getting rich without advertising, don't form the mistaken idea that he got rich because he did not advertise. He simply got rich in spite of it.

When you are writing advertisements make them attractive to the woman every time—even though you are advertising men's goods. The women control the pocketbooks of the country.

When you get in fresh goods, let the public know it. Never let your stock or any part of it look like old goods—if you can keep it.

Don't say that advertising doesn't pay until some one has proved it to you conclusively. Some advertising doesn't pay, of course. All you have to do is to avoid that kind. It is not as hard as it seems.—The American Advertiser.

Reason It Out.

Dances, entertainments, picnics, church services—no matter how good—all must be advertised in some way, or they will be dismal failures. Yet some men say advertising does not pay.

Mr. Business Man, in every city on the globe the fake advertising man—the "scheme" man—makes his appearance. Pensacola is no exception. They come here, and they go—as soon as they have collected their bills, leaving behind only what they were compelled to pay for, what they eat—ham and eggs in some cheap restaurant and perhaps some bitter recollections in the hearts of the suckers they caught. Of course, every scheme they present to you has its argument prepared and you may think that all they say is true. Stop, Mr. Merchant, and think the matter over, and see if you could not give this money over to charity or to increasing the salary of your best salesman, but for heaven sake discourage the fakir who takes your money and makes no pretense at giving you anything for it.

Gospel Truth.

Old ads won't sell new goods, but new ads will sell old goods—Advertiser.

What, Indeed.

You don't need to advertise, because everybody in town knows who you are and where you are? So does everybody know who the other fellow is and where he is. What is going to keep them from going to see him instead of you?—American Advertiser.

Ask Yourself a Question.

In Pensacola, like it is everywhere else—the man that does the smallest amount of advertising does the most business and the man that does the most naturally get the best business. Isn't so, Mr. Advertiser?

A Great Thing.

The Kandy Kitchen has entirely established itself. It is now doing a tremendous business. The service is generally conceded to be the very best that can be had in the city. It is the fashionable rendezvous of Pensacola.

and it is an establishment that is filling a long felt want. Their oyster loaves are simply delicious.

"They Sure Is."

Geo. W. Pryor & Sons have a new ad in "The Journal." To use an expression heard on the street with regard to this ad, "they are raising sand with prices." Read it for yourself.

Other People's Ideas.

A Hartford house once advertised that they would allow 50 per cent. discount on all half-dollar neckties, provided the purchasers brought in the advertisements clipped from the newspapers. Good way to get at the value of advertising mediums.

A New Haven house, who wished accurate data for sale, truthful and interesting advertising, once offered a prize of five dollars to the woman who mailed in the greatest number of sane questions about floor coverings before a certain date. Questions and answers were then published. Good way to get the public point of view of your store.

A New York furniture store once advertised that they would give an infant's crib worth seventy-five dollars to the person who would send in the greatest number of words formed from the letters composing the firm's name. Good thought here for the new store wishing to familiarize its name with the public.—The Advertiser.

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquezone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquezone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquezone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquezone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquezone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquezone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquezone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you.

Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we put on every bottle the offer of $100,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

There lies the great value of Liquezone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Fever—Gall Stones Tumors—Ulcers
Gout—Kidney Diseases
Gonorrhea—Gleet
All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrhs—all infectious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood. In nervous debility Liquezone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

If you need Liquezone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it.
